

MANILA SITUATION
REMAINS THE SAME

McKinley Meets the Department Officials.

CONSULTATION BRINGS NO SOLUTION OF SITUATION.

Feel That Something Must Be Done, But Cannot Agree As to What Action Should Be Taken—To Remove Gen. Otis Would Be to Discredit the Entire Campaign and to Expel the Correspondents Would Be to Indorse the Russian System—Merritt May Command Troops.

Washington, July 19.—[Special]—A consultation among officials last night and this morning brought about no solution of the Manila situation. President McKinley and the war department officials feel that something must be done, but cannot agree as to what that action should be. To remove Gen. Otis would be to discredit the entire campaign in the Philippines, and to expel the correspondents would be to endorse the Russian system and that would be hazardous. One of the leading army officers is quoted as saying that the correspondents should be shot. The general impression is that Otis should be quietly set aside and probably the best way would be to appoint him civil governor of the archipelago. Gen. Miles or Gen. Merritt, and most likely the latter will be sent to command the troops in the Philippines.

Storms Impeded Business. Washington, July 18.—[Special]—The following was received from Gen. Otis this morning: "Continued rains and cyclonic storms greatly impeded business in the harbor. The Colorado sailed on the transport Warren yesterday. In addition one hundred and thirty-four discharged men of various regiments took passage. The Californians on the Sherman have arrived from Negros. The vessel must be coaled and await the subsidence of the typhoon now prevailing."

Washington, July 18.—[Special]—The state department unqualifiedly denies the statement that Aguinaldo has made direct overtures for peace to Gen. Otis.

Otis or Correspondents Will Go. Philadelphia, July 18.—[Special]—Press Postmaster General Smith's paper and which is looked upon as President McKinley's personal organ, says today that if the allegations of the correspondents are sustained by official investigation, Otis will be removed.

If, however, they are found untrue, the correspondents will be excluded from the Philippines.

Secretary Alger Is Mute.

Long Branch, N. J., July 18.—[Special]—Secretary Alger refuses to discuss the Manila correspondents' protest.

CABINET MEETING HELD TODAY

Only Four Members Present—Protest of Correspondents Not Discussed.

Washington, July 18.—[Special]—Only Secretaries Hay, Long, Hitchcock and Postmaster General Smith attended the cabinet meeting today. The others were out of the city.

The protest of the Manila correspondents was not discussed according to the statements of the cabinet officers, action in regard to it being postponed until the return of Secretary of War Alger.

The secretary of state presented the Alaskan boundary question, but there was no progress made toward a settlement of the vexing question.

Dispatches from Colonel Denby of the Philippine commission was also read.

Washington, July 18.—The Manila dispatch protesting against the censorship on news from the Philippines, sent from Hongkong by the newspaper men, will be taken up by the cabinet today. So far as can be learned nothing has been done or decided on concerning the communication.

Officials are exceptionally reticent on the subject and it could not even be ascertained whether the newspaper card had been cabled to Gen. Otis, although it is presumed that this has been done, since otherwise he would not learn of it in the ordinary course of things for some weeks when American or European mails reach him.

It was said by a prominent army officer that Gen. Otis probably would be left free to act on the card as he thought best. Nothing, he added, has been heard from Gen. Otis on the subject.

Manila, July 11, via Hongkong, July 18.—The constantly increasing strictness of the censorship of press dispatches from Manila, which has prevented the cabling to the United States of anything that did not reflect official views of important events and conditions, resulted in a united effort on the part of correspondents here to secure an abatement of the rigor of the censorship.

The initiative in this direction was taken a month ago, and resulted in the framing of a statement, which was presented Sunday, July 9, to Major Gen. Otis, commanding the military forces of the United States in the Philippine islands, with a request for permission to telegraph it to the United States. The correspondents also asked that they be allowed to cable to their respective papers all facts and the different phases of events as they transpired here. The correspondents had two long interviews with Gen. Otis, in the course of which they complained that the evident purpose of the censorship was not to keep information from the enemy, but to keep from the public a knowledge of the real condition of affairs here. It was also asserted by the correspondents that newspapers printed in Manila, within reach of the enemy quickly, are permitted to publish statements similar to those which correspondents are forbidden to cable. It was made clear to Gen. Otis that the objection was to the system and not to the censor.

Gen. Otis finally promised greater liberality, agreeing to pass all matter that he might consider not detrimental to the interests of the United States. Gen. Otis appointed Capt. Green of his staff censor.

Correspondents May Be Expelled. Washington, July 18.—It is admitted in administration circles generally that Gen. Otis is confronted with a very delicate situation. All the newspaper men who are with him have signed this "round robin," and therefore have laid themselves liable to prompt expulsion from the islands, if not to even harsher punishment.

During the civil war such commanders as Grant and Sherman and Butler promptly expelled correspondents from their armies—drumming them out of camp in disgrace—for the mere publication of facts which these generals did not regard it the part of wisdom to make public. Such correspondents as Whitehead, Mr. Swinton, and others who stood highest in the newspaper profession of that day were so treated, and there was no appeal from the judgment of the commanding general.

In this case the correspondents have not only appealed from the authority of Gen. Otis, but have contradicted his official dispatches. It is difficult for members of the administration to see how Gen. Otis can allow these correspondents to remain with him after they have so impugned his official utterances. But it is not believed that the general will use any harsh measures in dealing with them.

Immense Force Needed.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 18.—According to H. Haskerville Mason of London, who is now at the West hotel, the worst is yet to come in the Philippines. Mr. Mason has spent considerable time during the last five years at Manila. "At the most conservative estimate," he said, "I think that we will not see an end of the fighting out there in less than four years. There were not enough regulars or trained troops to start with. It takes at least a year's service to make regulars out of volunteers. I think it will take at least 100,000 men to accomplish what this country set out to do in the Philippines. Gen. Otis has about 40,000 soldiers and I doubt if over 12,000 are fit for active service."

AGUINALDO IS LOOKING FOR PEACE

Said to Have Made Direct Overtures to Gen. Otis.

New York, July 18.—A special from Washington to the Herald says: "Important cablegrams have been received at the state department from the Philippine commission and at the war department from Gen. Otis concerning a new move in the direction of peace. These dispatches have been in the hands of the president for several days.

"All that can be learned definitely about them is that direct overtures for peace have been made to Gen. Otis by Aguinaldo and some of his principal leaders. The correspondent was told by a cabinet official that if the promises are fulfilled the volunteers now being enlisted will not be needed."

McKINLEY MAY RELIEVE GEN. OTIS

Will Seek to Find if Misrepresentation Came from the General.

New York, July 18.—A dispatch from Washington says: "The revelations now made about the censorship at Manila astound the leading officials here. If it is found to be true, as correspondents assert, that Gen. Otis has caused incorrect information to be sent to the war department at Washington and that he has misrepresented the situation to the president, he will be supplanted by an officer of more tact and greater capacity. This is vouchsafed by a member of the cabinet. An investigation will be made at once."

Cold Attacks Oregon Men.

Washington, July 18.—President McKinley received a telegram from San Francisco Monday saying that the Oregon troops, just from Manila, were without overcoats and were in danger of pneumonia, and that there were plenty of overcoats in the quartermaster's department. President McKinley directed that such clothing as was necessary for comfort be issued.

Iowa Men Are Complaining.

Council Bluffs, Iowa, July 18.—Letters received here from the boys in company L, Fifty-first Iowa, indicate that they are tired of fighting and are anxious to be sent home. Many of the boys criticize Gen. Otis.

As they were out of money they were obliged to beat their way.

The last thing he could remember was starting for his home some few days ago, after completing his day's work. He intimated that his condition was the result of crooked work on the part of his enemies.

Notifying his friends by wire of his whereabouts, he was immediately in receipt of money for his transportation home.

KENTUCKY STREET
BATTLE CONFIRMED

FIVE MEN KILLED AT MANCHESTER, CLAY COUNTY.

A Renewal of the Baker-Howard Feud—Allies of the Families Settle the Difficulties in Their Own Way—Great Excitement Exists—More Killing Expected.

London, Ky., July 13.—[Special]—The report of the bloody battle near Manchester yesterday, in which five members of the Baker-Howard feud parties were killed, is confirmed. Great excitement exists and more killing is expected.

Louisville, Ky., July 18.—At Manchester, Clay county, as the result of a renewal of the Howard-Baker feud through the friends of the factions, five men were killed and three wounded. The dead are:

- ED FISHER.
 - AARON MORRIS.
 - BOB PHILPOT.
 - IRVINE GRIFFIN.
 - JOHN GRIFFIN.
- The wounded: Ex-Representative Granville Philpot. George Philpot. Sam Griffin.

Monday afternoon Bob Philpot was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Thatcher and was being taken to the sheriff's office, where a peace bond was to be filed. Aaron Morris, who is a member of the Howard faction, passed, and, noticing that Philpot was unarmed, he drew a revolver and shot him in the back. A desperate fight followed in the open street, and bullets flew like hail. Fully a score of men were implicated in it, and the greatest excitement prevailed in the town. When it was all over, a few minutes later, five men lay dead on the ground and three others were badly wounded. Nearly all those directly interested were killed and the sheriff made no arrests. It is said the members of the two factions are arming themselves, and it is feared there will be another encounter.

The cause of the trouble was the result of a killing that occurred last December. At that time Jim Crow Philpot was shot and killed by Aaron Morris, and the brothers of the dead man swore they would have revenge. Since that time they have been waiting for a chance to shoot Morris. Bob Philpot was arrested on a warrant sworn out by Aaron Morris, who, it was claimed, had come to town with the avowed intention of taking the life of his enemy. At the time the officer placed him under arrest he is said to have had two large revolvers in his pockets.

The Philpots and Fishers were of the Baker faction, and the Griffins and Morris with the Howards.

Gov. Bradley may decide to send troops to the scene at once. Since the killing of Tom Baker, the leader of the Baker faction, a short time ago, while he was under arrest, it has been apparent to the residents of Clay county who were acquainted with the character of the two factions that it was only necessary for them to meet for a battle to take place. Every effort was made by the merchants and law-abiding citizens to pacify the belligerents, but without avail. The Bakers always claimed to know who fired the fatal shot from ambush and slew their leader, but they would not divulge his name, and said that he would be dealt with as he treated his victim.

RECOMMEND STOUGHTON MAN

It is believed that at least eight commissions will be given to the state, and half of these may be captaincies.

Capt. C. J. Rollis, of Stoughton. John W. Green, of Oconto, who applies to be a lieutenant.

This is the first time that Darien has beaten Milton and were helped out by their hired battery and Clark, of Sharon, while Milton is the home of all her players and they are purely an amateur team.

Martin Clark was the victim of an unfortunate accident Friday evening. He fell from the Richmond house platform and dislocated one ankle and sprained the other. The injury is painful and will oblige him to be idle at a season of the year when he is anxious to work.

A LONG-FELT WANT.

It Is Supplied At Last In Janesville

It is hard to always be pleasant. Good natured people are often irritable. If you knew the reason you would not be surprised. Ever have itching piles? Not sick enough to go to bed or well enough to be content. Nothing will annoy you so. The constant itching sensation. Hard to bear; harder to get relief. Keeps you awake nights. Spoils your temper nearly drives you crazy? Isn't relief and cure a long felt want? It is to be had for everyone in Doan's Ointment. Doan's Ointment never fails to cure itching piles. Eczema or any itching of the skin. Here is proof in the testimony of a citizen:

Mr. L. Lawrence, of 408 S. Franklin St., engineer at the Janesville Electric Light Co., says: "I tried about everything recommended for itchy skin of the skin, but found nothing to give me relief until I struck Doan's Ointment, which I obtained at the People's drug store. I had an affliction of the skin on my face caused from the burning oil about the engine and dynamo. My face itched and annoyed me, and rubbing it only made it worse and made it sore. I could hardly stand shaving, for the skin broke and bled. A few applications of Doan's Ointment removed the itchiness and healed up my face in a few days. I would not be without this remedy in my house, and I certainly recommend it to others in need of such a preparation."

Doan's Ointment is sold for 50 cents per box by all dealers. Mailed on receipt of price by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U.S. Remember the name, Doan's, and see other happy couple started for their new home, a shower of rice following them. Their future home will be in Evansville. They were the recipients of many useful gifts. Mr. and Mrs. John Nicholson from Janesville and their two daughters and Miss Georgia Sherman passed last Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. Lee. The Village Improvement society met, at Mr. Ressler's Wednesday evening and subjects pertaining to home making were discussed, and music was rendered. The next meeting will be at H. W. Lee's two weeks from last Wednesday. A social will be held at Ed Raymond's, Friday night, July 21. A pretty wedding took place at the M. E. parsonage in Edge rton Wednesday afternoon, July 12, at four o'clock. Chas. H. Carrier and Miss Laura M. Kellogg being united in marriage. Mortimer Carrier acted as groomsmen and Miss Daisy Rathern, of Janesville, as bridesmaid. The ceremony was witnessed by a few near friends, after which the party drove to Fulton where they were entertained by Mrs. Wm. Saxby, a cousin of the bride. After refreshments, the bridal party drove to Janesville to take the train for Madison. The carriage was decorated with white ribbons and old shoes and the rice was thrown in showers upon them. A printed banner adorned their valise. After July 26th, the bride and groom will be at home to their friends. Last Wednesday night some of our people were greatly surprised to see a man on horseback, followed by a large elephant, pass through our village. They were on their way from Milwaukee to Evansville, and had travelled about fifty miles that day. Ole Oberg was taken to the asylum last week. Mr. Clarence Clark, Gardner Clark and Miss Georgia Sherman passed a day in Fulton last week. A number of our people attended the Roney Boys' concert last Friday evening at Edgerton. Among them were the boys' and girls' choirs, about twenty in number, who were driven to the city in a large wagon in care of Mr. Martin. All were pleased with the music, particularly with the boys. Miss Mabel Lee returned Friday evening from her trip to Detroit, where she attended the C. E. convention. She reports a fine time. Miss Nellie Pease has gone to Kenosha to spend a week with friends. There were several people from out of town at church Sunday morning and evening. The boys' and girls' choirs furnished the music for the Sunday evening service, and did their teachers credit as well as themselves. Miss Gerie Galbraith is a visitor in our community. Mrs. Farrand Sayre and daughter, who have been spending a few weeks at Mr. Wallin's, have gone to Ohio, expecting to return in the fall to make a short visit. Mr. Bidwell is again carrying the Evansville mail, as the new man "threw up the route" finding it more work than he expected.

BRODHEAD PEOPLE WERE PLEASED

Think the Cycle Meet Promoters Did the Best They Could.

Brodhead, July 18.—The excursionists from Brodhead headed by the Brodhead band, cannot express their thanks in words for the royal entertainment they received while in Janesville attending the L. A. W. races. They think the management did all in their power to make it a complete success. The band extends their thanks to the Y. M. C. A. and Imperial bands for their acts of kindness and only hope they will soon have a chance to return them. We are having plenty of rain and the farmers are considerably behind with their work. The oat crop is very heavy and the recent rains have caused them to fall which will make the harvesting trouble some. The M. W. A. picnic at Oakley last Friday was postponed on account of the rain until some time in August. The doctors are busy now and report a great

Oh, the Pain of Rheumatism!

Rheumatism often causes the most intense suffering. Many have for years vainly sought relief from this disabling disease, and are to-day worse off than ever. Rheumatism is a blood disease, and Swift's Specific is the only cure, because it is the only remedy which can reach such deep-seated diseases.

A few years ago I was taken with inflammatory Rheumatism, which became so intense that I was for weeks unable to walk. I tried several prominent physicians and took their treatment faithfully, but was unable to get the slightest relief. In fact, my condition seemed to grow worse, the disease spread over my entire body, and from November to March I suffered agony. I tried many patent medicines, but none relieved me. Upon the advice of a friend I decided to try S. S. S. Before allowing me to take it, however, my guardian, who was a chemist, analyzed the remedy, and pronounced it free of potash or mercury. I felt so much better after taking two bottles, that I continued the remedy, and in two months I was cured completely. The cure was permanent, for I have never since had a touch of Rheumatism though many times exposed to damp and cold weather.

CARS RUNNING IN BROOKLYN

Strikers Fail to Tie Up Street Railroad System.

LITTLE DISORDER REPORTED.

New York Policemen Still on Duty—Elevated Railroad Engineers Have Grievances Which They Want Adjusted—Strike Not Likely.

New York, July 18.—More cars were run over the Brooklyn Rapid Transit system Monday than on Sunday, the first day of the strike. But all the cars were again withdrawn at midnight, and on the majority of lines even earlier. The old Nassau lines continue to suffer the most severely. On the others cars were run almost on a schedule during the afternoon. The situation became worse after 6 p. m. Many of the motormen and conductors were forced to stop for rest after fourteen hours' work.

The strike leaders claim that 1,000 more men quit Monday. The company claims that between 300 and 400 strikers have returned to work. The disorder was not so great as on Sunday, but the 1,400 Manhattan policemen have not been withdrawn from Brooklyn.

The Brooklyn elevated railroad engineers have submitted a list of grievances to Chief Arthur of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. Grand Engineer Ingraham of Cleveland says a strike is not likely. If one is ordered it will have nothing to do with the surface men's grievances.

The indications are that the threats of a strike by the employees of the Metropolitan Street railway company in New York will not be carried out.

The employees of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company on the elevated roads are undecided as to whether they will strike or not. About eighty conductors and brakemen failed to report Monday, but traffic was not interrupted. Several meetings were held, but without definite results.

The conductors and brakemen may await the action of the engineers and firemen, who will send a committee with a list of grievances to President Rositter today.

John Sherman Improving Slowly. Mansfield, Ohio, July 18.—From John Sherman's closest friend and former law partner, Henry C. Hedges, it is learned that the venerable statesman is improving slowly from his recent illness and hopes to be about soon again.

deal of sickness. August Wolf died at his home in Decatur township, three and one-half miles north-west of Brodhead last Friday. The remains were laid to rest at Juda last Sunday. A great many of the local sports are contemplating a trip to Dubuque, Iowa, to attend the horse races, August 31. Anyone visiting our city, Saturday, and seeing the people and business transacted, would think we were a second Chicago. All we lack is more competition in the way of railroad facilities, and we have the hustling abilities to do the rest. What a good thing it would be for the city to build a band stand. Will someone start the ball a-rolling? We know the concerts would be better, besides we would be up with the times. F. A. Knoll returned, Saturday, from Whitewater, where he has been erecting a barn for Mrs. Bennett. Mr. Knoll is a good workman, and has more work than he can attend to. It is surprising to see the amount of improvements that have been made in our city this summer, in the way of building. About fifteen new houses have been erected, and about as many more are to be built. Our city fathers are talking of putting in five new arc lamps, on our square, which will be a needed improvement. Mr. Macatee of Chicago, is visiting his brother-in-law, Jacob Bush. We are soon to have some fine trotting and running races here. The management is trying to secure some fast horses. That's right; show the people that we are alive and abreast with the times.

Sonoma to Defeat W. J. Bryan.

Louisville, Ky., July 18.—Bryan democratic leaders have commenced work to save the state for Bryan and defeat the plans of Senator Goebel, the democratic nominee for governor, who, although he had Bryan endorsed in the state platform, it now develops formed a combination to defeat Bryan and nominate Gorman. It is said the scheme is to unite on Gorman and Harrison, to hold the Kentucky convention first and start a stampede from Bryan in the south by instructing for Gorman and Harrison.

Favor Shorter Work Day.

Indianapolis, July 18.—In the iron molders' convention Monday two resolutions were submitted on the shorter work day and the abolishment of the piece-work system. Owing to an agreement between iron molders and their employers, by which all differences must be settled by arbitration, it is probable, delegates say, that there will be no final settlement in this convention of these two questions. The sentiment of the convention is in favor of a shorter work day and of the total abolishment of the piece system.

New Orleans, La., July 18.—A shooting affray occurred Monday between Alphonse Mulvey and W. B. Roberts. Mulvey was killed. The two men were joint editors of a sensational paper named the Headlight. It recently suspended and Mulvey started the Thomas Cat and Roberts the Thunderbolt. The two former partners quarreled and abused each other in their papers, with the above result.

BICYCLE RACING SUITS.

Now that it is announced that the men who took part in the recent bicycle races are to sue the managers thereof, an interesting point of legal practice is likely to be raised—"Can an attorney, without sacrificing the dignity of the court, be permitted to appear before the bench in a bicycle racing suit?"

Of course, some attorneys would appear better than others, and a bicycle suit differs materially from a bathing suit, but the question does not apply to individual cases. We must establish a precedent for the practice in general. Judges frequently ride wheels, and so do attorneys, but there is no case on record, so far as we know, where an officer of the court has appeared, either in or out of court, in a bicycle racing suit.

It is important that the dignity of the courts be upheld, and we fear that the bailiffs will have trouble in preserving order with the advent of the bicycle racing suit. If a bicycle racing suit is begun, however, the courts and the attorneys must try it. We shudder at the thought of the consequences, but do not see how it can be avoided. Let us hope, therefore, for the best.

RAISE GOOD HORSES.

Rock county farmers can still realize a good profit on all the good horses they can raise. The Chicago Chronicle's review of last week's business in the horse market follows:

Nearly 300 more horses than came to market last week have found ready sale this week, and all change in prices has been toward improvement. Eastern buyers and exporters have been much more active in the trade, buying on a larger scale than usual at a time, so far into the summer season. Small horses and the big unsound offerings continue slow sale, but the general trade is of good tempo at following prices:

	Poor.	Good.	Best.
Drafts.....	$5	$15	$25
Loggers.....	50	70	90
Chucks, 1,100 to 1,400 lbs.....	40	70	95
Drivers.....	40	110	300
General Use.....	25	50	60
Carriage teams.....	190	275	825
Saddlers.....	30	120	195
Plugs.....	5	15	25

While it will not pay to raise "plugs," draft animals, driving horses, saddle horses and carriage teams are in demand at good prices. A good horse can be raised as cheaply as a poor one, and the man who breeds from good stock will make a handsome profit.

Almost everyone will hope that Uncle Sam will be lenient with F. M. Girard, the California soldier who deserted his regiment—after a furlough was refused—to go to the bedside of his dying mother, afterward returning to his regiment. True, it was a violation of the regulations, but the man who is faithful to his mother is made of the right stuff and can be depended upon to do what is right.

Prof. A. M. Leonard says the advent of the kissing bug presages the end of the world. Perhaps this is true, but be that as it may, it certainly presages the end of the bug, both the business end, and the mortuary end—whenever the kisser can reach him.

Constant Reader—The incident you speak of would be interesting. Of course, the Mad Mullah has become famous because of his Swat. Therefore, as you suggest, it is likely that the kissing bug would emerge from the meeting a very poor "second best."

The gentleman who blew agonized notes out of an alleged musical instrument about town yesterday, was taking serious chances. This town has had all the "music of pipes" that it cares about.

Business must have been good in the Chicago newspaper offices last night. Not one of them found it necessary to play an Alger resigned from the cabinet-story under a scare head.

The L. A. W. has decided to invoke the L. A. W.—without the periods.

Big Gambling Losses in England. In the latest history of gambling in England, just published, there are some astonishing revelations as to the amount of money won and lost by men and women whose names were as familiar as household words early in the present century. There are records of $1,000,000 having been lost at a sitting, and the loss of $250,000 appears to have been a very common occurrence.

RINGLING BROS. AGENT HERE

Contracts With J. M. Bestwick For Grounds—Others Fare Well

Dick Hunter, advance agent of the Ringling Bros. circus, was in the city yesterday, just one month to a day ahead of the show. He left this morning for Monroe. While here he contracted with J. M. Bestwick for the fair grounds where the tents will be pitched; with Dan Ryan for horses and wagons for billing the show in the surrounding towns; with Charles E. Brown for the meat; with Hockett & Son for bread and milk; with Wm. F. Flaherty for feed for the horses and animals and last but not least with Johnson & Stevens, of the Hotel Myers, for accommodations for the advertising crew of seventy-five men.

Mr. Hunter is a genial, whole souled gentleman and made many friends during his short stay here. He is fond of a joke and delights in those of the practical sort. One of his many amusing experiences will bear telling. It was away up in the northern towns of the state where he had gone to make the usual contracts. He had not been in the burg long before he was accosted by one of the large and ever increasing army of barnacles who are always looking for something for nothing. This one was an old specimen, and he, of course, remembered Hunter when he was "so high." He assured him of his undying friendship and infinite admiration, and wound up by a request for a pass to the show. "Sure," answered Dick, with a wan, tired look on his face, resembling that of a man who has attended a remnant sale of coffins. "You go down town and gather together all your friends, and every man that raises his hat to me as I pass by, will get a ticket." The old man went off, and in the press of business, the incident had been forgotten (by Hunter), but as he went to the depot he nearly fell dead to find the way literally lined with beaming rustics, and although the rain was falling, every man's head was uncovered. How he squared himself he didn't say, but as the train pulled out of that station he went away with the uncanny feelings of a man who had been forcibly kissed by the bearded lady of the sideshow.

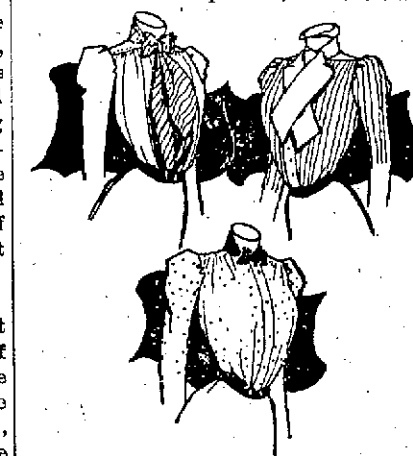

Sandwiches Up to Date.

Sandwiches are inexpensive, appetizing and satisfying, as well as popular, for picnics, impromptu summer entertainments, luncheons, etc. To be a good sandwich maker and up to date in all the new varieties is no mean accomplishment. Here are some late wrinkles: Brown bread sandwiches are of the "Boston brown" variety. These have no "filling" at all, but they are rather unique in their character, being made of brown bread that is cut extraordinarily thin and is spread with fresh butter—butter that has no salt in it.

A sandwich of the day is the cucumber sandwich, consisting of a thin slice of cucumber that has been well iced and prepared with a sauce laid between two small squares of buttered bread. This is the proper sandwich for a green tea table.

Neckwear For Shirts.

The wearing of good, style collars, pretty ties and stocks makes all the difference in the smart appearance of shirts. If the collar is wrong, the tie ends too long, and so forth, the whole style of the shirt, no matter how pretty it may be, is spoiled. With a plain tailor made shirt a white linen, high banded, turndown collar with round ends, worn with a butterfly or club tie, looks very well, or a pique stock. With cloth shirts of light colors, which are worn so much at present, a more elaborate stock and tie are permissible.

STOCKS AND TIES.

orate stock and tie are permissible. Make the stock of stitched taffeta, with the side turnovers of mirror velvet in a delicate shape, and wear with a scarf of brussels lace put twice around the neck and tied in a small bow with long ends. With the thin, elaborate white shirts wear a stock of fine linen, with embroidered batiste turnovers and a thin tie of fine batiste, embroidered, plain or lace trimmed and tucked. The small turnover collars of hemstitched lawn, lace trimmed or not, are easily worn with a shirt by attaching them to the straight linen collars, which come about an inch and a half high and the same size all around.—Vogue.

Odd Coincidences.

Winfield (N. J.) Special Brooklyn Times: Homer F. Candee, the new postmaster at this place, has a remarkable family history. To begin with, his father fought in the revolutionary war, enlisting when he was 21 years old from Connecticut in 1783, six months before the war closed. After the war he was granted a pension. He had three wives. He lived sixteen years with his first wife when she died. Sixteen years with the second, when she passed away, and sixteen years with the third when he departed. The third wife married again and lived sixteen years with her second husband, when he died and she survived him exactly sixteen years. Postmaster Candee was born in 1828.

Ready for Death.

Emma Calve's purchase of a tombstone is not an unusual occurrence except that it is a new way for an operative star to secure advertising. There are scores of men and women who have ordered tombstones and coffins before their death. The tomb of Pope Leo XIII. is ready, the Pontiff having several years ago given a commission to the famous sculptor Luchetti, who finished his work last month. The simple epitaph containing his name, date of birth, with a blank for the date of death was written by Leo, and all is in readiness for him when he dies.

Fifteenth Century Wages.

The account books of All Souls' college, Oxford, are in an excellent state of preservation, and from them we are enabled to get a correct idea of the wages paid about A. D. 1438. Carpenters and sawyers got 6d. a day; daubers, 5d.; stone diggers and laborers, 4½d.; masons and joiners, 8d.; a master carpenter, 3s. 4d. a week, enjoying also a tithe from each laborer employed under him, a custom still existing in many parts of India, and which the engineers are trying to abolish. A skilled image carver received 4s. 8d. a week, with bed and board, as he generally came from a distance. In those halcyon days a horse cost the modest sum of £3.—J. W. Parry in Engineering Magazine.

RIDERS MAY LEAVE OLD ORGANIZATION

NATIONAL CYCLING ASSOCIATION REAPS AN ADVANTAGE.

Failure of the Local Race Meet Said to Be Responsible For the Sentiment in Favor of That Move—Some Interesting Comment From the Press.

Wheelmen all over the country continue to discuss the failure of the bicycle meeting, and its effect on the League of American wheelmen. The sporting editor of The Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin publishes the following:

The failure of the national meet of the L. A. W. at Janesville last week has renewed the hopes of the National Cycling association agents of getting hold of the territory of Wisconsin. The riders who refused to race at Janesville, unless the entry fees were reduced, but afterwards announced their intention of sticking to the L. A. W. have changed their minds since returning home, and now they are ready to join the new organization, providing any strength is shown at all. Chairman Greenburg will shortly visit Milwaukee for the purpose of arranging a race here under the auspices of the N. C. A. Minneapolis parties are also strictly in favor of the new association, and yesterday wired Chairman Greenburg a guarantee of $2000 in cash prizes if he will give them five of the best known riders on August 4 and 5. The amount is guaranteed by the best people of that city.

The Local Club
In another column The Wisconsin speaks of the legal proceedings to be begun by the League, and refers to the local club as follows:

"The Janesville meet purported to be given under the auspices of the Janesville Cycling club, of which Attorney M. G. Jeffris is president and Stanley A. Tallman secretary. So far as the officials of the League are aware they are the only members of the club."

Oconomowoc Races
The League has warned all riders against participating in the races at Oconomowoc as the result of a discussion of the justice of the handicapping fee charged by the League. Charles N. Freeman, the promoter of the meetings, writes The Milwaukee Journal a lengthy communication, closing with the paragraph:

"I would like to ask Mr. Harback if the L. A. W. wants the earth, or just the state of Wisconsin or the city of Janesville?"

ADKINS THE HERO OF YESTERDAY'S GAME

LANDED THE SPHERE WAY OVER THE FENCE.

Made a Home Run, Bringing In Two Men Ahead of Him—Battle Witnessed By a Large and Enthusiastic Crowd of Spectators—Last of Series Tomorrow.

Lovers of good base ball who failed to attend the game yesterday between Oshkosh and the Y. M. C. A. indeed missed a rare treat. It was by far the best exhibition seen here this season and every player was a bright and shining star. The pitching of Adkins was superb and at all times above criticism. He held the heaviest of the Oshkosh batters down to a handful of hits and received excellent support from the balance of the team. The best thing about it was that the home team won by a score of 3 to 2. In the sixth inning it was 2 to 0, Oshkosh, and the hopes of the rooters sank like chances of a favorite candidate on the second ballot, but they were soon raised when Adkins rapped the ball across the eyes and sent it in the direction of Beloit. Two men came in ahead of him and the rest was easy. Joss and Zanafor were in the points for Oshkosh but their good work was of no avail.

The score was as follows:

LAND WAS ENTERED BY DANIEL WEBSTER

A RECENT REALTY TRANSFER OF HISTORICAL INTEREST.

John P. Porter Disposes of Property in the Town of Porter to Olavine Furseth that Came Into Possession of the Great Statesman, March 29, 1837.

Among the most recent of the real estate transfers was one which is of historical interest and which will take the old timers back to the early days of Rock county and to the time when Janesville was but a small village. To the casual reader of the transfers it is simply the sale by John P. Porter to Olavine Furseth, one hundred and seventy acres of land in section 6, town of Porter, but in following it back, it is found that the land, originally consisting of three hundred and twenty acres was first entered by the great statesman, Daniel Webster, on March 29, 1837. It is near what is now the village of Waucoma and part of the town is platted upon it. The first transfer of it was in 1842 when Daniel Webster sold it to John Porter. In 1855 it was again sold, this time to William M. and Isaac G. Porter, who jointly owned it until 1883, when Isaac G. bought his brother's interest in it. The last change in the ownership of the famous land, was on July 5, last, when John Porter, executor of the Isaac Porter estate, sold it to Olavine Furseth, the consideration being $11,863.

THE TREASURE FISHING.

By OUTCLIFFE HYNÉ.

[Copyright, 1899, by Outcliffe Hyné.]

I fancy the two divers must have been in it from the very first, and indeed I've a strong notion the whole plot to steal the treasure was in the beginning theirs and theirs alone. I can't be sure, but I've an idea that Miss Bradbury came into the business soon after we sailed from Liverpool, and, if one may hazard a guess, it was because Willie Cameron, the diver with the black hair, fell in love with her and let out the secret. However, I didn't arrive at any of this till later, and, if it hadn't been lugged into the business by the veriest outside chance, it's my belief the three of them would have walked off with all the gold, and the salvage company would never have seen so much as the bare color of it.

There was a distinct understanding between me and Captain Boyd when I signed on as "third" of the Gleaner that I was only doing it as a personal obligation to himself. The berths of second and chief engineer had been filled. They wanted a man who would not mind bearing a hand if anything went wrong with the diving tackle, and they couldn't have picked a better than myself. I was thoroughly well grounded in the shops before ever I thought of the sea, and, though I say it, few better fitters and all round mechanics have ever stood on the foot-plates of a steamboat's engine room. If it wasn't for the board of trade and their rotten examinations, I'd have been chief long ago, and with a chief's ticket in my pocket you may be sure I'd have got the master hand over the whisky, at any rate at sea, and in sight of any one that mattered ashore.

Of course it was a condescension for a man like me to be third on a bit of a steamboat like the Gleaner, but I was drawing £8 a month, which was the same as the second engineer got, and I'll not deny I was in a manner forced into taking the first berth that offered. I'd been paid off from my last ship in Liverpool, and I'd met friends who knew Ballindochater, where my father had been Free Kirk minister, and we'd got a little noisy and found trouble. The fat English brute of a magistrate did give us the option, but it took all the money I had left to pay myself out.

I might even admit, too, that the business of the Gleaner had some attraction for me. She was off treasure fishing to the Canaries; she was chartered by a little company that called itself the S. S. Corinth Salvage association, and the work for her engineers promised to be light. We should steam down channel, through the bay and down to the spot among the islands where the Corinth had been sunk, and there we should swing anchor while the boats went off with the divers to do their work. We should keep banked fires in case an onshore breeze came and we had to steam out, but as a general thing there would be no watches for us engineers and full pay going all the time.

"It'll be the softest job you've tumbled into for many a long day, Mr. Mc-Todd," said the old man when he offered me the berth. "We shall be quite a family ship. There's a big, large cabin, and we shall all mess together—mates, engineers, divers and passengers—with your chief at one end of the table and me at the other."

"Passengers?" said I. "I thought this was a salvage job."

"They are coming just for a cruise—a Mr. Kent and his wife and her sister, a Miss Bradbury. Of course the Gleaner hasn't got a passenger certificate, so they will have to sign articles like the rest of us to get to windward of the board of trade. The ladies will be stewardesses and Mr. Kent can take his choice between being doctor and fourth mate."

"Are they interested in this salvage business?"

"Not a bit," said Captain Boyd. "They're people of means, and Miss Bradbury writes novels. They pay for their grub and rooms like they would on a regular packet. They're just coming to see the diving and get a blow of sea air, and I shouldn't wonder but what the young lady writes a book about it when she gets home. So keep your hair combed straight, Mr. Mc-Todd. It's a pretty big affair, anyway. The Corinth took down £270,000 worth of gold with her when she foundered. She was a Cape boat, you know, coming home."

"Her propeller shaft broke, didn't it, somewhere in the after end of the tunnel?"

"That's the idea, Mac. There was a breeze on at the time, and I suppose she was racing badly. And it ripped the stern plating to smithereens when it went. Of course, the sliding door to the shaft tunnel jammed when it was wanted, and so she just had to swamp. There was no help for it. They'd half an hour to get clear in, and the boats saved about two-thirds of her people. I guess the rest of the poor beggars are in her now, and an ugly sight they'll be for the divers when they go down to try to weigh that gold."

The captain had other business to attend to then, so I left him, but after we got fairly started and had dropped our Mersey pilot at Point Lynas there was information about the work ahead for any one who chose to listen. The talk was upon nothing else. The three passengers fairly brimmed with it. They said treasure diving was "so romantic."

For myself, when I thought of those dead bones guarding chests of gold far down in the slime and the weed and the cold wash of the sea, I thought the business was merely grisly. But then I never did understand the ways of those writing people. They would have suited my father better. He was a writer that every one who reads will have heard of. It was he who wrote "Sixty-two Years in Ballindochater," by A. Scourger of Sin.

I cannot say either that Miss Bradbury was my idea of a woman who could write a book. To begin with, she was young, and as bonny looking a lassie as you could pick during a three hours' search in Buchanan street, Glasgow. She'd a fine color to her cheeks and big brown eyes that fairly lit when she warmed up in her talk. She was not small, but her white canvas shoes would stand within the palm of my hand. I tried that one day when the steward was pipeclaying them. She'd a guitar with her on board, and when we got to south across the bay and the nights grew warm she'd sit out in the moonlight and sing. Her music was nothing in my line, though. It was all of a flighty sort. But, then, it was not made directly for my pleasure. Cameron was the man she sang for, and, though at first she disguised this, before we rose the Canary mountain above the sea line she was not shy of letting it be seen by any one who chose to look. And Willie Cameron liked her in return, and, if ever I saw it, love glowed out of the eyes of these two.

We were fellow countrymen, Cameron and I (I am Scottish myself), and at one time and another the pair of us put in a fairish deal of talk. His air pump needed a bit of an overhaul, and as I was set on to help him we had plenty of opportunity. But I'll not say we got much of general topics. He seemed a man in a desperate hurry to get rich, and most every day he'd ask me if I could point him out a plan. But my answer to him was always the same.

Cameron was the man she sang for.

"Man," I'd say, "I'd no be acting as third engineer on an odd job steamboat like this if I'd a plan handy to my fingers such as you seem to want."

And then he'd shake his head and sigh and fall to talking about the methods by which he and his mate hoped to get the gold boxes out of the wreck and down into the Gleaner's hold. I suppose I ought to have seen what he was after then. But I didn't. I'd only got it in my mind that he wanted to marry Miss Bradbury and didn't see his way to finger enough money ready to set up housekeeping upon.

We'd an easy bay and a good run down, and we made Grand Canary one morning just before the dawn. We ran into Las Palmas harbor and saw Tenerife far away across the sand neck, with its sunny head, rosy in the sunrise. We'd a day there making arrangements and getting in some stores, and then we steamed out again and made for the spot where the Corinth had gone down, and brought up to an anchor and lowered fires.

Before us lay the open sea, behind were the dry cinder hills of Grand Canary, and above were blue heaven and a sun of dancing brass. The day was frizzling, the island gave us a lee out of the southeast trade, and there was no breath of wind astir. The water lay like a sheet of metal. No divers could have asked for a better prospect. We got their two boats into the water, each with air pump, rowers, cockswain, man to tend the life lines and men to pump, and off they rowed, 100 yards apart. Presently the air pumps began to turn, and the diver, like some white, uncanny sea beast, went over from each. After a pause the boats pulled slowly ahead. Cameron and his mate were walking along the sea floor, searching for the wreck.

I was off watch and stood leaning my elbows on the t'gallant rail of the lower deck and smoked and looked about me. The water was full of these little pink sailed jellyfish that we sea folk call Portuguese men-o'-war, though "nautilus" is, I believe, the fancy name. I pointed them out to Miss Bradbury, who was standing near, and asked her if she'd like one caught.

"Do you think there's much danger, Mr. Mc-Todd?" says she.

"They've just a wee sting to them if they get upon your hands," said I. "But there's no need to touch them. You can just gratify your eyes, and then we will fling them overboard again. They're no beauties that you'd care to keep and take home with you, like a canary bird."

"What do you mean?" says she.

"I'm talking of these Portuguese men-o'-war."

She put her hand upon my arm, and I looked up into her face and saw it was as white as paper, saving for black rings under the eyes. "I beg your pardon, Mr. Mc-Todd, for being so inattentive. I'm afraid my thoughts are under the sea instead of on top of it. Is this diving very dangerous work? Their air tubes might get entangled."

"They're too old hands to let them foul."

"Or they may get swept away by currents."

"Their life lines will keep them in tow."

"Or sharks."

"Sharks are always feared at divers, Miss Bradbury. No, miss, you may believe me, those two men are as safe down at work below as you are here, or safer, seeing that they can't get sunstroke, and you very likely will if you stay here away from the awnings with no hat on."

"She shivered, and thanked me, and went away into the shade, and I turned again and watched the boats and the two moving patches of muddled water which they were following. It struck me at the moment that the Steamship Corinth Salvage association were putting a vast deal of trust in the two men whom they employed as their divers—£270,000 worth of gold is a very vast bulk of wealth for poor men to be near."

They did not find the wreck that day or the next. Indeed not till a week had passed did they come across her, and then they found that she had settled on the sea floor where a current had carried her over her till she was almost covered out of sight. They buoyed her when she was found and that day I went off in Cameron's boat and tried to see if I could make her out from above. But she lay in 16 fathoms, and the water was gray with mud from them working below. Looking down into it was like peering through a mist.

The Gleaner swung at her anchor over the western ocean swells, and the sun bleached her awnings to the whiteness of new fallen snow. For myself, but for one thing, I never had such an easy time on full pay during all my seagoing. There was no work to do. A lot of grog was served out, coast fashion, at eight bells, and the slop chest tobacco burnt slowly and cost only 2 shillings a pound. But there was one thing worried me and that was Miss Bradbury. She had joined at Liverpool as rosy a lassie as one could wish to meet, and here she was getting whiter and thinner every day. You could almost see the flesh slip away from her bones, and she'd an appearance of scare and worry about her face that made one sick to look at. All hands saw it. There was no avoiding such a thing. But they put it down to anxiety about Cameron.

The pair of them were openly engaged to marry by this time, and I must say the way that he and the other diver worked was a caution. Of course the water was warm, but it was fairish deep, and I never saw men stay down longer. They never seemed to give in while they had strength left to lift a hand, and when they came to the surface and had their gear taken off they'd be almost fainting with weariness from what they'd gone through. And it was not a one day occurrence either. They were always the same, and the weeks slipped away till they had run into a month, and still none of the gold had been brought to the Gleaner.

The sill was the trouble, it seemed. As fast as they dug it out just so fast did it slide down again into the steamer's bowels, and the strong room, which lay right down against her keel, could not be come at. Of course one understood that Cameron's reputation depended upon his bringing off this salvage job successfully, but I don't see the force of a man killing himself, and I told him so more than once. I fancied at the time that Miss Bradbury was telling him the same every day. But he didn't take any notice of either of us, nor did Storey, the other diver, and the pair of them just worked themselves to rags.

A stopper was put on their game, however, in a way they did not expect. The steward brought word one morning that the captain wanted to see me, and I turned out of my bunk and went on deck. He seemed in a bit of a worry.

"Mr. Storey's had a stroke," says he. "I've told that man a dozen times to take drugs, sir," said I, "and he never would."

"Drugs are all very well for us, Mac," says he, "that have ordinary stomachs, but drugs wouldn't have saved Storey what he's got, and that's paralysis."

"My certie!" said I. "It's true," said the old man. "It took him while he was in the boat. Cameron had just gone down and Storey was going to follow when he was seized. They took off his helmet and brought him back here, and he's down in his room now with half of him dead and no speech left."

"It's a complaint, I've heard, that often does seize divers."

"It does if they stick to the trade too long. Well, Mac, I'm wanting some one to take his place, and I give you first offer. It'll mean £5 a week above and beyond your present pay, and there's nothing to hinder your earning it."

"Nothing that I see, sir. Storey and I are just in a build and I can wear his suit."

"Very well, then, just give me your hand for half a minute and look me in the eye."

I did that.

"Now," said he, "you're a servant of the Corinth Salvage association, and I'm another. Your father was a gentleman, wasn't he?"

"He was that, sir, and one of the most honored Free Kirk ministers in Scotland."

"Then you must be a gentleman, too, though I dare say you are not always treated as such. Now swear to me, Mac, on your honor, as a gentleman, that you'll be true to those that are employing you."

I looked at him in the face and did it cheerfully. When a man treats me properly (and God knows few enough of them have tried it) he's got a fellow to work for him he ought to value highly.

I got into the suit as the boat rowed me out to the buoy, and when we picked out the mooring the men screwed on the helmet for me and started the air pump. It wasn't a new experience to me; I'd been diving before in the Clyde to bore holes into a sunken pier with a ratchet drill.

I went over the side, took the rope and lowered myself hand over fist through the gray water till the leaden scales on my feet touched ground. The corky feeling was a bit new again at first, but I soon got over that, and then, as my air valves were working all right, and I could breathe quite easily, I set about looking for Cameron. He was somewhere out of sight, but his air tube was lying on the mud among the

FATAL BATTLE WITH ROBBERS.

Train Bandits Kill One and Wound Three of a Sheriff's Posse.

East Las Vegas, N. M., July 18.—Meager details have been received here of a pitched battle between a sheriff's posse and the gang of outlaws who held up a Colorado & Southern passenger train at Potosi, N. M., a few days ago. The affray occurred near Cimarron. W. J. Farr, a member of the posse, was killed. Mr. Farr lived at Walsenberg, Colo. Deputies Smith and Love of Springer, N. M., were probably fatally wounded. W. H. Reno, chief of the secret-service department of the Colorado & Southern railway, was also wounded.

One of the robbers was killed and the others abandoned their horses and are being pursued in the hills by twenty men.

Unique Violin.

New York Tribune: A unique violin has been made by a Missouri man. The back is of cherry from a table more than a century old, which formerly belonged to the Howard-Payne college. In the center of the back are inserted twenty-one pieces of wood from the Holy Land, one being from a grapevine that grew in the Garden of Gethsemane. Around the margin are set in a row small pieces of wood, diamond shaped, gathered from all over the civilized world. In one end of the back is inserted a horseshoe made of castor wood, and in the other end is the image of a rabbit carved in cherry. There are, in all, over 150 pieces of wood, and the only tools used in the manufacture of the instrument were a pocket knife and a half-inch chisel.

Y. P. C. U. Meets at Lynn, Mass.

Lynn, Mass., July 14.—The convention of the National Young People's Christian union began here Thursday. The report of President Fowler complained of a falling off in the work. The executive board recommended that the central union make no appeals for money except by the 20 cents per capita arrangement, the 2 cents a week mission plan, and subscriptions to Onward, and that the cost of building the Atlanta church shall not exceed the funds in hand, by more than $1,000.

To the White House.

For the first time since Nellie Arthur's days the white house will have a young girl as one of its occupants. When Holyoke seminary closes at the end of June, Miss Grace McKinley will take up her home with her uncle, the president. She is said by those who know her to be a very pretty girl. Her father was a brother of Mr. McKinley. Both her parents died when she was a mere child, and before she went to Holyoke she lived for a time in her uncle's home in Canton.

Bananas.

New York Tribune: A virtuous banana company has withdrawn from the unrighteous banana trust, shocked and hurt because it was asked to help force the price of bananas up from $1.15 to $2.50 a bunch. The public value of this news is that bananas can be profitably produced at $1.15 a bunch. Now, a good bunch contains at least a hundred bananas, and therefore bananas can be produced at a little less than a cent and a quarter apiece. And one banana contains as much nourishment as a pound of beef.
